About Me

I'm a visual designer specialized in branding and UX/UI for digital products and scalable applications. I focus on clarity, consistency, and detail, creating thoughtful visual systems that elevate user experiences. My approach is minimalistic by nature, yet flexible enough to adapt to diverse brands and creative directions. With experience across complex apps and design systems, I translate ideas into clear, functional visual solutions. I enjoy shaping products from identity to interface, ensuring cohesion across platforms and multidisciplinary teams. Detail-driven and user-centered, I design with purpose, balance, and a strong understanding of how digital products, platforms, and users interact.
